CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE.

XXVIIISH SESSION-FIRST DAY.

SENATE.

SACRAMENTO, January 7, 1889.

At precisely 12 o'clock, noon, President protem. Stephen M. White called the Senate to order, requested the Senators to assume their seats and said: "Senators: In the absence of the Lieutenant-Governor, who, owing to the death of the Governor, has been called to the discharge of the functions of the executive office, it becomes my duty, as President pro tempore, to call the Senate to order. The Chaplain will please offer prayer."

prayer."
Rev. H. C. Christian, Chaplain of the last session, offered the following PRAYER. Oh God, Our Father in Heaven, we invoke Thy presence in the opening of the Senate today, and Thy blessing upon all these Thy servants who represent the people of this great commonwealth in this legislative hall. May all that they do be done in wisdom, in truth, in temperance, in justice, and Thou shalt have the glory forever and ever. Amen.

SENATOR WHITE'S OPENING REMARKS.

SENATOR WHITE'S OPENING REMARKS.

The President pro tem then addressed the Senate as follows:

Senators: The extraordinary occurrence which has haposed this obligation upon me should not pass unnoticed. For the first time in her history, California has mourned the death of her Chief Magistrate. When the twenty-seventh session of the Legislature closed, we left our late Governor engaged in the ardnous labor of examining the results of our tardy efforts. We bade him adieu, knowing that he would never sanction any measure that did not, in his judgment, accord with the welfare of the commonwealth. He finished that task, but his health, impaired by an insidious malady, was impotent to withstand the drain of his great exertion. He finally succumbed. He was laid to rest, amid the sighs of a regretful people, close to that beautiful harbor upon whose shores he had spent his choicest days, and where were located those historic scenes in which he had acted so prominent a part.

Washington Bartlett was indeed a man. He beautiful harbor upon whose shores he had spent his choicest days, and where were located those historic scenes in which he had acted by prominent a part.

Washington Bartlett was indeed a man. He faithfully discharged his duty to his fellows. He was a citizen who thoroughly comprehended the privileges of his franchise. His faithfully discharged his duty to his fellows. He was a citizen who thoroughly comprehended the privileges of his franchise. His faithfully discharged his duty of his opinions. He had studied the laws of the country—not to evade, but to support and maintain them. Content to accept the reward which he found in the knowledge of his rectitude, he held position not for self aggrandizement, but for the common benefit. In a ministerial capacity he was affable, economical, efficient. As a Senator he occupied a soat in this chamber to his constituents advantage and that justice and fair government might be promoted.

The votes which are cast here cannot be repudiated. The record stands for all time. Measures may accomplish or fail to accomplish their purposes. That which is popular to-day may be otherwise to-morrow. Folicies may change and individuals alter their views. Public clamor often induces the cowardly to yield acquiescence to unreasonable demand. Cupidity may tempt and affure from the walks of honor, and weak conscience and uncertain judgment sometimes permit unworthy motives to dictate legislation, but it any and all events the trunt of a page will be sufficient to give the truth to homestly and strong sense of Governor Bartone the honestly and strong sense of Governor Bartone the honestly and strong sense of Governor Bartone the honestly and the corruptionists never darkened his door.

The journals of this body, like all other evidences of his conduct, uniformally certify to the honestly and the corruptionists never darkened his door.

The clerk announced that the special conduction of the conduction nished certain proof that this great confidence was not misplaced.

Washington Bartlett was a pioneer. He belonged to that hardy band—the founders of this great State—who, despite obstacles, before deemed insuperable, brought the stars and stripes to the western coast and gave to those who are in presentienjoyment of the blessing, and to multitudes yet to be, a matchless land controlled by a modified and adapted common law administered wisely and construed with wisdom and liberality. He had witnessed California struggling for recognition. He accompanied her to a position from which it needed no prophetic gift to foretell her exalted destiny in the sisterhood of an indisoluble Union. His allotted duty done following numbers of the in the sisterhood of an indisoluble Union. His allotted duty done, following numbers of the companions of his earlier manhood, he joined the ranks of the many whose deeds had all been chronicled. His death was a loss, great indeed, but yet the penalty of nature. His example is of inestimable value. It teaches that a steady, sensible and honorable life is not without reward; that the flash and glare of momentary though brilliant success is not requisite to lasting fame, but that intelligence and fidelity are essential to accomplishment of the greatest and most enduring good. And though the lone bugler's last call has died away and the mourners have returned "where stands the vacant chair," the people of this commonwealth will not forget the history and virtues of Washington Bartlett.

Senators, under the Constitution, twenty mem-health, he was taken from his family, his friends and his State. He was an upright man; a Senator whose extended incumbency left an unblemished record. It is fitting that some tribute to his memory should emanate from this Chair which he so often addressed, in the tone and sentiment of a legislator truly striving to uphold the right. It is not my wish to occupy your time in eulogies, however appropriate, but in the pursuit of our ordinary avocations and in the consummation of the charges that rest upon us, it is proper that we should pause when one of our associates has passed away, paying the of our associates has passed away, paying the meed of respect that is his due, and signifying our appreciation of his high trais of character, and of the good that he has done.

I will not claim your attention in speaking of the duties which are before us. They are thoroughly understood the duties which are before us. They are thoroughly understood.

Legislators do not usually receive much commendation. Perhaps they do not always deserve it, but it may not be amiss to remark that it is often the practice to attack measures after their passage into laws, when, perhaps, well-directed criticism in advance would have exposed the weakness, or rendered the inutility of the proposed enactment apparent. I believe that no Senator will feel otherwise than pleased at just comment upon his course.

If the press will use its power in suggesting the dangers of mistaken legislation before it is too late, and specifying the particular matter at which the objection is leveled, i do not doubt that much advantage will result.

I know that I am but expressing your views when I say that we will at all times be more than ready to receive and carefully consider such suggestion as may come from the distinguished citizen who occupies the Executive office.

Dissatisfaction was expressed when it became apparent that the following was to be Boss Buckley's slate: Robert Howe, Speaker; Ed Leake, Chief Clerk; Henry Hart, Assistant Clerk; Jere Driscoll, Sergeant-at-Arms; William Fitzgerald, Clerk to Sergeant-at-Arms; George Hughes, Assistant Clerk to Sergeant-at-Arms; George woodward, Assistant Journal Clerk; A. Another conference was held with him during the atternoon, and he agreed, as it was claimed he had done before, that the San Francisco delegation would support the caucus with the most backers, which was the point the country members had been contending for.

An immense crowd collected in the rotunda of the Capitol last night during the progress of the Senate and Assembly caucuses. Boss Buck-ley and his lieutenants Driscoll and Rudolph walked around among the crowd, the former ley and his lieutenants Driscoll and Rudolph walked around among the crowd, the former being approached occasionally by anxious office-seekers, each of whom seemed happier after his interview. The Senate caucus organized by the selection of Senator Yell of Mendocino as Chairman. The session was a lively one, and lasted until half-past 9, resulting in the selection of the following: For President pro tem. of the Senate, stephen M. White of Los Angeles; for Secretary, George W. Peckham, editor of the Watsonville Tribune; for Chapiain, Rev. A. C. Bane, of Secretary, George W. Peckham, editor of the Watsonville Tribune; for Chapiain, Rev. A. C. Bane, of Secretary for Sergeantat-Arms, George W. Faylor of San Francisco.

Senator Yell was selected to nominate Stephen M. White inithe Senate. Senator Goucher will second the nomination. Mr. Yell bad a strong following, but withdrew from the contest yesterday. The caucus then adjourned to meet at half-past 1 o'clock this afternoon.

The friends of Ed. F. Smith were very much disappointed that he was not selected for the position of Secretary. It was believed at the time the caucus met that he had more strength than Peckham, as it was thought he had a majority of the Senators from the country, and it was understood that the San Francisco delegation would vote for wheever had the majority of the country members. When the country vote was cast it stood 7 to 7. The San Francisco delegation went to Peckham, and he was elected by a vote of 14 to 8.

LAST NIGHT'S ASSEMBLY CAUCUS.

The Democratic Assembly caucus met last evening in the Supreme Court room. Boss Buckley was early on hand, as were likewise the nine bolting lambs of the afternoon, meekly submissive once more. Jere Driscoll acted as Cerberus at the door of the ante-room and received the announcements of nominations as quite a matter of course. Here is the list: Speaker, Robert Howe, of Sonoma; Speaker protem., T. W. H. Shanahan, of Shasta; Clerk, Ed Leake, of Solano; Assistant Clerks, Henry Hart, of San Francisco, Myron Yisger, of Tehama; Sergeant-at-Arms. Jere Driscoll: Assistants, Frank Anaya, of Stanislaus, Thos. M. McManus, of Butte; Minute Clerk, Bruce Pendegast, of Yolo; Assistant Minute Clerk, Charles McCourtney, of San Francisco; Journal Clerk, Carl Spelling, of Sonoma; Assistants, H. W. O'Rea, of Modoc, D. C. Shepard, of Stockton, George Woodward, of San Francisco; Engrossing Clerk, Gus Sheehy, of San Francisco; Assistant Engrossing Clerk, C. B. Swift, of Amador; Enrolling Clerk, Charles H. McGreevy, of San Francisco; Postmistress, Mrs. M. Kent, of Sacramento; Arsistant Postmistress, Mrs. Mary Sims, of Santa Clara; Chaplain, Rev. T. A. Early, of the christian Church, Sacramento. A very heated and prolonged discussion arose over the nomination for Chaplain, some of the speakers arguing against the dragging of religion into politics. D. A. Ostrom, of Yuba, presided over the caucus, and E. J. Reynolds, of San Francisco, acted as Secretary. The caucus adjourned at 11 o'clock, subject to the call of the Secretary. LAST NIGHT'S ASSEMBLY CAUCUS.

It is reported here that District Attorney Carey has said that Borneman can never be convicted, as the evidence of the Government's witnesses will be discredited. Mr. Maynard, who succeeded Borneman as Cashier, lost about $2,800 in about sixteen months' service, owing to the incompetent management of the Sub-Treasury, and resigned. Whether or or not his successor is doing any better is unknown. At the Treasury Department the San Francisco Sub-Treasury is said to be one of the most inefficiently managed offices in the country. Mr. Brooks has asked for a detail of detectives to work up the case against Borneman, but the request was refused. After the defa'cation was discovered Brooks declared that he would never make good the money, and with his consent his boudsmen should not pay it. He directed Borneman's retention for what he considered to be the best interests of the public service, but it is said that he regrets having interfered in any oe the best interests of the public service, but it is said that he regrets having interfered in any respect with the appointment of an officer so heavily bonded as is the 8ub-Treasurer at San Francisco. The English-Made Plans for the Cruiser Texas are All Right. Washington, January 7th.—Assistant Naval Constructor Bowles to-day reported to Secretary Whitney that the plans for the new armored cruiser Texas had verified the designer's calculations. Thereupon the Secretary directed that work on the cruiser at the Noriolk Navy Yard, which had been suspended, should be continued. These are the plans made in England, and which created such a stir and finally led to charges that they were incorrect, and that all the work on the vessel had been wasted. When the Secretary learned of these charges he at once ordered Mr. Bowles to make an investigation, with the result as above.

The Perpetrator of a Terrible Crime The surveyors, instead of following the usual course through the Fredonia Pass from Mountain Meadows, turned more to the west and around to Bridge creek.

On this route the country is comparatively level and well timbered. It opens up a new country and does not parallel the Central Pacific line.

It continues to Madeline plains, sixteen miles distant, and turns northward to the south fork of Pit river, in the southern part of Modoc county.

From this point the route will be down the valley to Alturas, whence one spur will run north to Oregon and another southward to the northern end of the Sacramento valley, probably along the north fork of the Heather river to Oroville. It is the intention of the company to complete the line to San Francisco.

A CONFERENCE OF STATES.

Governor Hill of New York, in a message a day or two ago to the Legislature of that State, advised conference of States with a view to securing uniformity of laws relating to divorce. If, as is understood he favors transfer of jurisdiction in divorce cases to Federal Courts under laws to be passed by Congress defining causes of pronot commend itself. The tendency to centralization of power is sufficiently strong diction of causes and actions of divorce. States to secure uniformity in divorce laws is a wise one. It did not originate, however, with Governor Hill. "The Divorce Reform League," of which Judge Davis, of New York, was so long the head, advocated such a step years ago. There is really nothing to be said against it, but everything in its favor. If such a conference accomplished nothing more than gaining the consent of the States to each recognize the judgments in divorce rendered in the other States, it would be a long step in advance, but no reform, except so far as it removed cause for scandal As it is now, a man may have a lawful wife in two or more States at the same time, because of the non-recognition of judgments based upon unrecognized causes in one State that are sufficient to maintain a divorce judgment in others.

But the proposed conference would probably do a good deal in the way of real reform by bringing some of the States to abandonment of lax systems, and others to relaxation of too rigorous policies. The debate of the subject the sessions of the conference would create, in itself would be potential in bringing the people to agreement. There is really and never can be any reason why a different law should obtain in Nevada from that in North Carolina concerning divorce. There is and can be no reason why New York and California should be so widely apart in the matter of causes for separation, and in the matters of judgment-penalties and of lim-

No possible reason can be advanced by the citizens of Indiana why their laws should be more liberal in permitting severance of the maritial bond than those of its next door neighbors, Kentucky, Ohio and Michigan. The debate of the question under the official character of a contion under the official character of a conference of States would, therefore, strikingly present the contrasts, conflicts and absurdities of the several State laws and in itself that would tend to their abolition. The people will by such discussion be brought into communion with each other, and the Legislatures to hereafter meet will be very likely to reflect a sentiment tending to bring about harmony of the laws of the States, and the result will be in time practically one law throughout the Union concerning marriage and divorce, while the removal of any amount of scandal from the American name will follow, and what is better, there will be a decided check to the divorce current. If it were more difficult to enter the divorce courts, a great many people who now rush to them on slight provocation, would be likely to practice greater forbearance toward each other and would discover that by practicing patience, gentleness and self-sacrifice, happiness may result where at first only misery promises in continuance of the union.

· If the New York Legislature adopts Gov. Hill's suggestion and extends the invitation to the States to send delegates to a conference, it is to be hoped that the Cali fornia Legislature will concur. The conference involves very small expense, and will certainly result in great good. If we could have State conferences on two or three other subjects we would be decidedly benefited and a common interest enkindled upon several subjects that is not now felt.

AN ARCTIC STATION.

The San Francisco petition presented in the Senate by Senator Stanford for the establishment of a relief station in the Arctic Ocean, ought to result in speedy and effective action by the Federal Government. A fair sum of the "surplus" can be most wisely and humanely expended in locating such a station and in its steady maintenance. It ought to be near a good anchorage and a sheltered harbor, and just as near as it is possible to get to the early line of the ice pack. It should be equipp d with all necessary life-saving apparatus, and fitted out with a couple of thorough Arctic steam vessels and several launches. It should be well-provisioned, officered by men thoroughly familiar with Arctic service, and provided with medical and ship stores in plenty. It would by no means be objected if for actual clothing and food supplies furnished distressed vessels, the Government should exact from owners the first cost, with a view of counteracting any disposition by owner-outfitters to rely too much upon the contiguity of the station to the fishing grounds for supplies in case of exhaustion of their own

BRUISED BY BEER. Sacramento Strong Man Badly Hurt

While Showing Off. The San Francisco Examiner of yesterday says: Louis Warfer, a powerful man from Sacramento, was vesterday boasting of his strength in a saloon at the corner of Cali undeniable that there ought to be no fornia and Montgomery streets. He could, he said, hold unnumbered pounds out at arms' length, and could carry an unlimited arms' length, and could carry an unlimited number of sacks of flour. Finally he said that he could lift a thirty-two-gallon keg of beer that stood in the saloon, above his head. They bet him the drinks that he could not. He hoisted it without a great effort to his shoulder, and then laboriously began to raise it above his head. Hi beer and cask fell full on his face. His nose was smashed flat, his upper jaw was crushed and his whole face was flattened He was taken to the Receiving Hospita and the fractures, contusions and laceracould be seen, so completely was his head plastered and bandaged.

That Catankerous Old Woman Described in the nursery ballad, "who lived upon nothing but victual and drink," and yet "would never be quiet," was undoubtedly troubled with chronic indigestion. Her victuals, like those of many other elderly persons, whose digestive powers have become impaired, didn't agree with her. This was before the era of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, or some one of her nume ous friends and relatives would undoubtedly have persuaded her to try the great specific for dyspepsia, constipation and billiousness. This would have been a measure of self-protection on their part, for she would soon have been cured and ceased t disturb them with her clamor. The most tendant heartburn, flatulence, constant un easiness of the stomach and of the nerves are also relieved by it. The Wrangling Knights. PITTSBURG, January 7th -Barry attempted to beak in the Knights of Labor Hall, but was

The fact that the demand for Kangaroo Shoes is doubling each successive year proves that there must be some exceptional merit about the leather. To this end he moved that nstead of reducing the manager's salary, it be continued at $100 another month; that the manager be granted the necessary leave of absence to enable him to visit adjacent counties and present the advantages to be derived from the Exposition maintained at this point, with a view to procuring the desired contributions in exhibits and funds to aid in making and maintaining an effective display, and that he be allowed

Boston, January 3, 1889.

To Henry B. Stone, Vice President of the C. B. and Q. Railway, Chicago: I did not telegraph yesterday, as you requested, because it seemed unimportant, under the circumstances, and since we had been asked by the engineers to say what our position is, as it would be done with the authority of the whole Executive Committee. The company will not follow up the black-list, or in any manner attempt to proscribe those who were concerned in the strike, but, on the contrary, will cheerfully give to all who have not been guilty of violence or other improper conduct letters of introduction showing their record in our service, and we will in all proper ways assist them in finding employment. The first duty of the management is to those who are in the company's employ, and we must remember and protect their interests by promotions and by every other means in our power. Beyond this, if it should become necessary to go outside of the service for men in any capacity, it is our intention to select the best men available, and in making selections not to exclude those who were engaged in the strike of February 27th, if they are the best men available, and provided they have not since been guilty of violence or other improper conduct.

You are authorized to give a copy of this message to engineers who may call upon you.

ELECTRIC SUGAR. Facts that Add to the Mystery of the Sugar Swindle.

New York, January 7th.—The Evening Sun says that the facts in the electric sugar swindle which are constantly coming out add to its mystery. It declares that the company's first President, R. M. Woodworth, misappropriated a large amount of the company's funds and was forced to resign by W. H. Cotterell, who succeeded him and managed to get rid of all his stock at an honest figure, and significantly says: "It now appears that in in 1876 one Wm. Harry Cotterell decamped from New York with over $40,000 intrusted to him by the clients for investment. Cotterell was unable to return to this country until after the death of the swinthis country until after the death of the swin-

SOME ADDITIONAL FACTS. NEW YORK, January 7th.—It is stated this afternoon that President Cotterell and Treasurer Robertson both succeeded in disposing of all their stock before the exposure came. They were pricipally instrumental in getting English subscriptions to the stock. President Cotterell is supposed to have received $2,000,000 for his stock. Robertson, when interviewed, expressed great astonishment at the stories about Cotterell's earlier career.

ALL ABOUT A SOUAW.

All Were Killed. BLACKFEET AGENCY (via St. Louis), January 7th.—A courier reached here last evening from the Sweet Grass Hills with the news of a four-cornered duel to the death that occurred on Wadnesday last hetween a quartet of Gross Venn was endeavoring to make converted on tree and River Crow Indians. The struggle occurred about sundown on January 2d on the banks of Cottonwood creek in the foothils. Three of the reds were killed outright and the fourth was so seriously slashed that he died on Friday night.

It appears that for several months Spotted Log, a Gros Ventre brave, had been holding communication with the squaw of Louis Dion, a "squaw man" connected with the River Crow tribe. Dion came from Manitoba. He made no objection to the visits of Spotted Dog; in fact, he rather encouraged them.

Spotted Dog came so often that, finally, he was warned to keep away from the camp by a young Indian named Willow, the brother of Dion's squaw, he set out with a companion on a hunning expedition up Cottonwood creek. The coupie were followed by Willow and a young half-breed named Joe Hunks.

When about thirty miles from the Crow camp Willow and the half-breed caught up with Spotted Dog and his companion and commanded them to halt. An altercation ensued, which resulted in a challenge trom Spotted Dog to have it out then and there.

The challenge was accepted, and depositing their guns and blankets on the bank of the creek the guadiators drew their knives and squared away for the fight. Spotted Dog and willow were pitted against each other. At the first lunge Willow buried his knife in the muscles of his antagonist's right arm, disabling him.

The fight lasted half an hour, and at the conclusion spotted Dog, Willow and the half-breed, Hunks, were dead or dying, and the surviving Gros Ventre, bleeding from several wounds, was barely able to mount his pony and ride to the camp, where he made known the result of the battle, and subsequently died of his wounds.

The affair has created a great dead to bad feeling between the Innians, and further trouble is teared.

Several of the Gros Vertres have gone to Piegan Postoffice and purchased large quan-Wednesday last between a quartet of Gros Ven-tres and River Crow Indians.

Several of the Gros Vertres have gone to Piegan Postofice and purchased large quantities of ammunition, and it is surmised that they mean to avenge the death of Spotted Dog. Agent R. A. Allen has taken precautions to prevent any of the Blackfeet leaving this Agency. Word will be sent to Agent Lincoln at Gros Ventre Agency to adopt similar measures to prevent a conflict.

A Brakeman Butted From a Car by a Goat and Killed.

LARAMIE CITY (Wyo.), January 7th.—An overland fast freight train, which got here early yesterday morning, brought the mangled body of James Sumner, a Union Pacific brakeman, who had been thrown from the top of a train, while running at a high rate of speed. by a goat. The animal belonged to a "Daddy Nolan" barn-storming company and got on the train at Cheyenne, it is supposed, from a low shed adjoining the water-tank. The goat was called "Oleo" and was trained to clear the stage at a signal in the third act of the play. After the train left Cheyenne "Oleo" chewed awhile on the bell rope which ran along the top of the car and then grove two of the brakeman to the caboose where they remained in mortal terror, believing the animal was a wildcat. Sumner was lieving the animal was a wildeat. Summer was on the front of the train and had not seen the goat until the latter rushed at him full tilt. In the darkness he staggered, lost his balance and fell from the train. fell from the train.

His companions, peering over the top of the car, saw his lamp go out. They could not stop the train, as the bell cord had been chewed in two. The goat's further grazing on the cord, however, rang the bell in the engine-cab. The train was stopped and run back. Sumner's body was not much mangled, but his neck was broken. A cowboy lassoed the goat when the train arrived here and the Coroner ordered him to the jound pending the inquest.

etly, though several times the color came and went in his face. When Knight had finished, the Judge said: "The remarks of counsel are too intemperate for a legal argument. Public opinion never has and never will determine the law as it is laid down from this bench. If people who come to this country are the veriest criminals that Europe or any other country ever produced—and whether they are foreigners or not—they have equal rights in protection from imposition and the protection which the law affords. There is no danger that this Court will exceed its jurisdiction. It may be that it is as important that free speech and the right of peaceful assembly shall not be trampled into the dust, as that the police force should be perpetuated in a power which appears to be extreme and autocratic. Let the Court stand adjourned till to-morrow morning."

A Follower of Dr. McGlynn Not Entitled New York January 7th.—Justice Beach of the Supreme Court to-day decided that the remains of John McGuire cannot be interred in consecrated ground. McGuire was a life-long member of St. Stephen's Catholic Church, but also a follower of Dr. McGlynn. He received the sacrament of the church a few weeks before his death, but his body was refused interment in Calvary Cemetery on the ground that by attending McGlynn's meetings he shared in the latter's excommunication. Beach finds the question only one of property. McGuire died out of the church and this vitiated his deed to a burial lot. The case has excited great interest here. The decision also settles many similar cases of the followers of McGlynn. to a Church Burial.

A RED-HANDED RUSSIAN. entence of a Sailor Who Murdered

BALTIMORE, January 7th.—The Sun prints a story of the sentence, at St. Petersburg, of Jan Umb, a Russian sailor, to ten years penal servitude for seven murders. The sailor was accused aboard the ship of theft, and a confession was extorted by whipping. He was then confined in a dark cell, but escaped overboard, and submitted to being rescued on promise of better treatment. The master of the vessel renewed his abuse immediately. The sailor then killed the captain and two sailors on deck with a handspike, and killed the mate, cabin-boy and two sleeping sailors with a sheath-knife.

A short time ago Hopkins said: "When I die I want inscribed on my tomb this sentence: 'Murdered by E. L. Harper.' I want that man held up to the execration of all honorable men. Let men scorn him as they would a viper, for he has stung me into the grave."

General Harrison and the Clergy. INDIANAPOLIS, January 7th.-The Ministerial Association, by a unanimous resolution, appointed a committee to prepare an address expressing their regard for General Harrison. His Experience With an Actress. New York, January 7th.—Just before Leonard F. Tracy married Helen Dauvray he was engaged to the actress Etelka Wardell. She threatened him after he was married, and he gave her a demand note for $5,000. The Supreme Court to-day decided that Tracy need not pay without a new trial.
